CSA STANDARD W47.1 (2019)

MARINE ANNEX REVIEW

PRESENTED BY MICHELLE STANFORD AND CRISTIAN ZANFIR

HOSTED BY CWB GROUP - CERTIFICATION AND CWB ASSOCIATION HALIFAX CHAPTER

CSA Standard W47.1 "Certification of Companies for Fusion Welding of Steel" is being revised and updated by the CSA Technical Committee (TC) to ensure that the certification program is continually improved in response to industry feedback and changes in technology. This new edition (2019) will supplement the provisions of the current 2009 edition of CSA W47.1.

In response to the request received from the Marine welding industry the new edition of CSA W47.1 will have its own provisions for testing of welding personnel and procedures specific for the Marine industry. All these new provisions that will be included in the new edition have been developed to help welding shipyards meet and exceed any other equivalent standards that are being used by the welding industry. The new Annex M has been developed to meet and exceed the International Association of Class Societies Unified Rules (IACS-UR), but also to address additional requirements specific for some class societies. The intent of the new Annex M is to reduce the number of tests required for welding personnel and procedures in order to satisfy all class societies and applicable regulatory bodies; one stop shop.
